Effort to Prove It Was Not the Only One Used in Court.

Taylor Swears Donnelly Was Sitting After the First Shot.

McArdle, Jr., Acknowledged He Had His Pistol with Him.

The examination of Michael Donnelly, who fired some shots from his revolver at Patrick J. McArdle in Part II. of the Court of Common Pleas a week ago, was continued before Justice Tombs today in his private room at the Tombs Court-house.

McArdle was accompanied by his bodyguard when he went to the Tombs this morning, but the same rule which was enforced at the proceedings yesterday was put into effect and the Pinkerton detective and McArdle's son and private secretary, David H. Freedman, were told that they must leave the room.

Mr. Green said he was in the courtroom shortly after the shooting. He heard a gunshot and saw a bullet enter the wall of the room between two benches on the west side of the room.

The bullet was said, lying directly underneath the hole in the ceiling. The witness had the bullet folded up neatly in a piece of paper and handed it to Justice Tombs.

McArdle, who sat near the wall, stopped watching Donnelly, who was on the opposite side of the room, and went to the hole in the wall and looked out.

Justice Tombs asked Donnelly if he saw the bullet enter the wall. He said he did not see it, but he saw the bullet enter the wall.

MR. HART USED A HORSEWHIP

New York Man in a Street Encounter at Portland, Conn.

Trouble Over Quarry Stock and the Brainerd Will Case.

(Special to The Evening World.)

PORTLAND, Conn., May 1.—Leroy Brainerd, President of the Brainerd Quarry Company, was seated in his carriage engaged in conversation with Druggist George Lord yesterday morning, when George P. Hart, of New York, who married a niece of Mr. Brainerd, approached and thrust a paper into his face.

Mr. Brainerd struck Mr. Hart across the face with the back of his hand, whereupon the latter seized a whip from the carriage and brought it down on Mr. Brainerd's back. The whip caused a severe laceration on the back, which left a mark on the top of the carriage.

As soon as he could control his animal, Mr. Brainerd drove back to the scene of the assault, only to see his assailant waiting for him. Mr. Hart attended a sale of stock of the Quarry Company, that morning, and endeavored to leave the premises, but was prevented by Mr. Brainerd. He then entered a formal protest in the name of his wife.

Something more than a year ago the Brainerd will case was decided against the quarry company, which was a severe blow to the company. The case was a formal protest in the name of his wife.

In the event of such transfer being made by any officer of the Brainerd quarry company, she would proceed against the company for such penal and civil damages as might be advised by her counsel.

FOR SENATE CLOSURE.

A Declaration Quietly Passed Around by Mr. George.

Democratic Rank and File Tired of Tariff Delay.

Mr. Harris May Move for Another Change in Session Hours.

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 1.—That the rank and file of the Democratic party in the Senate is becoming impatient at the delay in the consideration of the tariff bill was evidenced yesterday by the circulation of a declaration in favor of closure of debate. The paper was prepared by Senator George, and was circulated very quietly during the afternoon, being handed only to the most influential Senators. It was not signed by all to whom it was presented, some of the Senators expressing the opinion that it was too early to attempt a closure and others declining because opposed to the principle.

The paper recites that it has become apparent that the Republican opponents of the tariff bill are determined to filibuster to prevent the passage of the bill. It makes no specification as to how the bill should be passed, but it is clear that the Democratic party is determined to pass the bill.

TRAIN DISASTER.

Engine and Cars Derailed and Completely Destroyed.

The Turning of a Switch Precipitates the Result.

Collapse of an Attempt to Dislodge an Old Established Line.

It, However, Holds the Track of Half a Century's Favor.

Graphic accounts have come to hand of the disaster to a special train chartered by an overhauling company, and bound East, for the purpose of overhauling the popular track, the business of an old-established and thoroughly satisfactory line. The train, on each car of which were prominently labeled the points of destination to which they were consigned, was running under full head of steam, with great flourish of trumpets, or, more strictly speaking, blowing of whistles, when the irresistible force of popularity turned the switch, and the overhauling engine, neglecting to stop at the point of destination, plunged into the main line, where it was derailed. The locomotive was the momentum that the locomotive

Spring and Summer season is a drink that will quench the thirst, and at the same time act as a wholesome tonic to the system. Knapp's Root-beer fills every requirement, and its general use will do much to solve the vexed problem of legislating on the restriction of stimulants. To quote the words of Gough: "There are no tears of widows or orphans to be traced in its delicious depths." Thackeray has pictured with startling fancy the aspert which is too often found celled up at the bottom of the bottle, and the last stimulating drops have been drained; but with such a cheering and refreshing tonic as Knapp's Root-beer, there is no reaction to average stimulation and no feverish remorse to follow lavish indulgence.
